ROYAL GOVERNMENT OF BHUTAN
COVID-19 ZONING TASK FORCE
PUNAKHA DZONGKHAG

Preamble

With reference to the current national lockdown due to COVID-19 pandemic, Punakha Dzongkhag has developed the standard operation procedures for gradual easing of lockdown, while improving situation or the other way round. This is being done through zoning of Dzongkhag area based on existing Dzongkhag town and satellite town considering the vulnerability of community to COVID-19 transmission through more exposure and high population density. This can be achieved by creating zones to contain any outbreak within a zone by strictly confining movement of people within the zone while also allowing them to do their essential shopping. Digital monitoring will be implied to ensure compliance of the zoning guidelines and documentation will be done by timely update for easier tracing in case of an outbreak.

Zoning Methodology

The Dzongkhag has identified 2 core zones, 3 buffer zones and 32 self-contained zones and 11 gewog zones. Core zones are the areas where there is high population density with major market center and buffer zones are areas engulfing core zone with lesser population density but comparatively higher to that of the rural community, and has easy access to the core zone settings. The zone boundary is decided to meet the objectives of COVID-19 task and not as per the political boundary. This systematic zoning is done with the expectation to ease the lockdown and enhance safe operation of public movement while also ensuring stepwise tracing of contacts in case of an outbreak.

Separate SOPs are prepared to respective zones, whereby residents falling within the zones are required to abide by it and strict monitoring should be done implying the respective SOPs. To have movement identity in the zones, movement cards are to be issued to every household, which will depict as the movement pass for card holders.

Three phases of unlocking

In an attempt to make the lockdown more endurable, while also streamlining the processes, many initiatives were introduced over the weeks to ease lockdown. It included allowing individual movement within the zones and gewog, among others.

Learning from experience, this will now be recorded in the lockdown stages, the document of which will be shared with public soon.

The unlocking episode is being considered in three phases, spreading over a total of ten days from September 1-10.

Phase one of unlocking (September 1-3) will allow more relaxation of essential activities, opening of more designated shops and restaurants, while allowing families to walk in super-zones. Further easing will be carried out in phase two (September 4-6), as movement public transport within the dzongkhags will be encouraged.

In the final phase (September 7) of unlocking, private car movements will be allowed. Starting 5am, September 11, movement of vehicles beyond the district is allowed but with prior permission from Royal Bhutan Police.

All the easing initiatives should lead to a new normal that is conducive for our society to operate economic and livelihood activities while also ensuring safety of our health.

Further, we will strengthen vigilance along our borders and ensure augmented safety for trading interactions. Special and additional measures will be introduced in the high risk areas to protect the community.

Additional tier of protection to avoid spillage of the disease from high risk to lesser risk communities will be ensured.
